ATA needs you for the launch of the Curator's monthly blog post!

Hello,

First off, I'd just like to introduce myself, my name is Ellie Barrett and I've been working with Artist Teacher Associates in the role of curator.

I'm emailing to tell you about a blog that I hope to launch before the end of the year that I hope everyone will make use of. While we are all thinking about making work, I'm very keen that we have the opportunity to discuss new developments and to showcase our new work as we make it, as well as seeking input and support from other members and working on links that we made at other ATA events. In the coming months, I will be producing a Curator's Blog: this will be comprised of content created by our members and will be a platform for supportive discussion and ideas-sharing. It will also include updates about the briefs and the exhibition and keep members informed about the curator's activity for ATA. It will take the form of a web page which will be updated monthly with images and content discovered by you.

I'm really excited that the content of this will be produced by ATA members, who have the freedom to use it to show whatever they like, be it a finished piece, work in progress, new objects/materials or even useful exhibitions or resources they'd like to share. I want to hear from you! Send me images/text/links - they don't have to look pretty, I'll do that bit for you. What's important is that it's all things that you'd like to share.

Submissions on a rolling basis throughout the month and I'd love to have them flooding in.

Submissions are now open for December's edition of the ATA Monthly Curator's Newsletter! Please send submissions (or any questions or any other correspondence!) to atacurator@gmail.com

Looking forward to hearing from you all,

All the best,

Ellie Barrett
