

LJMU Research Online

Consterdine, A

Research Engagement in 55 words (Flash Fiction)

<http://researchonline.ljmu.ac.uk/id/eprint/25635/>

Article

Citation (please note it is advisable to refer to the publisher's version if you intend to cite from this work)

Consterdine, A (2018) Research Engagement in 55 words (Flash Fiction). Qualitative Research in Psychology, 15 (2-3). pp. 267-271. ISSN 1478-0887

LJMU has developed LJMU Research Online for users to access the research output of the University more effectively. Copyright © and Moral Rights for the papers on this site are retained by the individual authors and/or other copyright owners. Users may download and/or print one copy of any article(s) in LJMU Research Online to facilitate their private study or for non-commercial research. You may not engage in further distribution of the material or use it for any profit-making activities or any commercial gain.

The version presented here may differ from the published version or from the version of the record. Please see the repository URL above for details on accessing the published version and note that access may require a subscription.

For more information please contact researchonline@ljmu.ac.uk

<http://researchonline.ljmu.ac.uk/>

Author: Alexandra Consterdine

Journal: Qualitative Research in Psychology

Special Edition: "Creative Representations of Qualitative Research"

Flash Fiction Accepted for Publication – 10/01/18

Title - The Philosopher and the Magician

The neophyte researcher has a tricky path to navigate. How can she demonstrate quality and draw credible findings hidden in the labyrinthine interview data vaults? She has to be both philosopher and magician; to accept that there are multiple truths and that the skilful researcher uses her arts to interpret and co-construct what is veiled.

Author: Alexandra Consterdine

Journal: Qualitative Research in Psychology

Special Edition: "Creative Representations of Qualitative Research"

Flash Fiction Accepted for Publication – 10/01/18

Title - Metamorphosis

Perplexed, I try to marshal my discordant, disparate half-formed ideas in to a coherent form. I fail. Under closed eyelids, they scud across my consciousness, twisting and changing; refusing to crystallize under pressure. So I force myself to relax, to give these transient notions the freedom to transform and metamorphose into something tangible, yet ephemeral.